"To Be Or Not To Be?" - William Shakespeare's play Hamlet, Act 3, Scene 1

Transformation is probably one of the hardest things to do. It's more than just changing a particular aspect of you; it involves the evolution of your entire being. The older we get, the harder this becomes.

And so, to bypass this unpleasant process we choose to remain the same and continuously find ourselves adjusting to the environment. I do wonder though:

❑ What if we became the shaper of our environment by refusing to conform?

❑ What if we choose to pay the price of discomfort in transforming instead of the price of complacency?

❑ What if we started believing that things don't have to stay the same?

❑ What if we acted upon what our intuition has been communicating to us?

Think about it really. What if, what if and what if??

Be and Stay Blessed Always!
